Hamilton Welcomes Sub-Frosh

This weekend Hamilton will play host to about 75 high school and prep school seniors who will have a chance to see the college as it functions normally.

The weekend will include a welcome by President McEwen, a chance to attend some freshman classes, interviews in the Admissions Office, talks with professors from each department and group meetings where the visitors will hear about Hill studies, athletics and extra-curricular activities.

The sub-freshmen will be guests of the various fraternities during their stay here.

Weekend Chairman Bruce Hall noted that the large number of acceptances out of the 175 invitations extended for the weekend "shows a lively interest in the education and college life Hamilton has to offer."

Classes Open

The visitors will arrive on the Hill Friday evening and Saturday morning. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday morning in the Gymnasium. Certain freshman classes will be open to the visitors.

Following lunch, President Robert W. McEwen will give a welcoming address in the Chapel at 2 p.m. A basketball game against Stevens College will begin at 3 p.m. Starting at 4:30, Profs. Hess, Gere, Hamlin, Rockwell, Hunt, Wertimer, Miller and Nesbitt will be in their offices to talk with sub-freshmen interested in study in their departments. The evening meal at the fraternities will be at 6 p.m.

Tolles to Talk

A hockey game against Middlebury will begin at 8 p.m. and will be followed by a group meeting for the sub-freshmen in the Baker Memorial Room. Dean Winton Tolles will speak about studies and co-curricular activities.

Also, the following students will speak on their respective undergraduate organizations: Al Shaler, choir; Paul McGiffin, the honor system; Carl Hansen, student government; Gary Tischler, Charlatans; Frank Gross, college religious activities, and Earle Schemerhorn, publications.

Members of the Block H Club will speak on varsity sports and will show 1956 Hamilton football films.

At 11 a.m. Sunday, sub-freshmen interested in athletics are invited to the Baker Memorial Room for a talk by Prof. Mox Weber. The following coaches of varsity sports will be present to talk to those interested: Jones—football, basketball, golf; Patrick—football, basketball; Batt—football, hockey, baseball; Hunter—soccer, swimming, lacrosse; and Weber, tennis.

Equipment Available

Athletic facilities will be open to the visitors on Saturday and Sunday mornings. Equipment can be checked out under the name of an undergraduate.

Sunday dinner at the fraternities will be served at 1 p.m. Hall has urged the sub-freshmen to attend the church of their choice in the morning. Services will be held in Clinton at the following times: Baptist, 11 a.m.; Episcopalian, 8 and 11 a.m.; Methodist, 11 a.m.; Presbyterian, 10:30 a.m.; Roman Catholic, 7, 8:30, and 10 a.m.

The first sub-freshman weekend of 1957 is being sponsored by the Student Admissions Committee. Bruce Hall will be weekend chairman, and Dave Sykes and Jim Holmlund will be in charge of registration and refreshments.

Red Cross To Visit Campus For Blood Collection March 8

One week from today the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Alpha Delt house to collect blood from Hamilton students.

Rick Hatch of Was Los, the society sponsoring the blood drive, announced Tuesday that extremely few students had signed up to give blood. He noted that the junior honorary society has had to contact faculty for the first time since the blood drive was initiated.

The blood collected next Friday has four possible destinations:

1. Community hospitals.
2. Overseas military establishments.
3. Commercial processing laboratories under contract to the Department of Defense.
4. An emergency reserve at blood centers. The Red Cross supplies approximately 50 per cent of the 3,700,000 pints needed yearly to fill the nationwide need for blood.

Hatch noted that any person between the ages of 18 and 59 who weighs more than 110 pounds and is in good health health can give blood. Donors between 18 and 21 need their parents' written consent to give.

He continued, "A healthy person should feel no effect at all from giving blood, which does not lower one's resistance to illness. Donating a pint of blood is comparable to an afternoon's exercise."

Donors will undergo a brief medical examination, including blood pressure, temperature, pulse, weight, hemoglobin level, and a record of past illnesses, before they give blood.

Hayner To Teach Philo - Religion At Washington-Lee

The Rev. Paul C. Hayner, associate professor of philosophy and religion at Hamilton since 1946, will join the faculty of Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Va., next fall, the College announced Monday.

Dr. Hayner has accepted appointment as associate professor of philosophy and religion at the Southern university and will begin his work there in September.

A native of Troy, N. Y., and a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Union College, Hayner holds the degree of bachelor of divinity from Union Theological Seminary, New York City, and a doctoral degree from Columbia University. He was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1943, and before coming to Hamilton, held the pastorate of the 187-year-old Salem, N. Y., Presbyterian Church.

In addition to teaching courses in ethics, philosophy, and religion at Hamilton, Hayner served for three years as chairman of the college's religious program committee, and has served as pastor of the Kirkland Presbyterian Church, where many Hamilton pre-ministerial students have often preached.

Since the resignation of the Rev. Wilfrid Hasbrouck from the pastorate of the Stone Presbyterian Church in Clinton last Sepetmber, Dr. Hayner has served as interim moderator of the session there.

His appointment to associate professor on the Hamilton faculty became effective last summer.

Toynbee's 'The World And The West' Chosen As Reading Selection

Arnold J. Toynbee's "The World and the West" is the book selected for this semester's all-college reading program. Toynbee's book is a compilation of a series of lectures he delivered over the BBC in the Reith Lecture Series of that radio company.

"The World and the West" has been reviewed by four faculty members and a student. Each chapter has been reviewed by a different person, a person whom the editors felt would have closer association with the topic of each particular chapter.

The following reviews by Prof. Starnes and Dick Hall are of the first and fifth chapters, "Russia and the West," and "The Psychology of Encounters."

In the next issue of the "Spectator," Profs. Long's, Richardson's, and Hayner's reviews of the remainder of the book will be published.

Copies of the book are available in the Library for 75 cents.

by Prof. William Starnes

If the main body of Toynbee's great work, his ten volume "Study of History," may be regarded as his lectures to his readers, then his essays—such as this one, may be looked upon as quiz sections for the same group.

He holds these latter in order to extract and emphasize those ideas which he finds most attractive and applicable to our society's trials and strivings. The sharpening and emphasizing seem as often for Toynbee's own fun and edification as for those who try to follow him in his massive strides through the history of the

Dr. George Boas To Philosophize Twice Next Week

"How Taste Changes" is the title of an illustrated lecture on aesthetics to be delivered by Dr. George Boas on Monday at 8:30 p.m. in the Chapel. Dr. Boas will present another lecture "The Right Anewer," on Wednesday, again in the Chapel at 8:30.

Dr. Boas is the first lecturer to come to Hamilton under a new fund, the Truax Memorial Fund, established last year to strengthen the instructional program in philosophy by bringing to the college distinguished lecturers in the field of philosophy. The fund is a gift of Hawley Truax, '09, in memory of his father, Chauncey S. Truax, '75.

Dr. Boas is currently professor of history of philosophy at Johns Hopkins University, with which he has been associated since 1921. After receiving degrees from Brown and Harvard, Boas began his teaching as an instructor in forensics at the University of California.

He served as a First Lieutenant in the Army in World War I and was commissioned a Lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Naval Reserves in 1943.

Dr. Boas is the author of essays on "Primitivism and Related Ideas in the Middle Ages" and "Wingless Pegasus" and the editor of "Romanticism in America." Last semester he attended the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, and his most recent honor is an invitation to deliver the Carus Lectures.

Dr. Boas will be on the Hill throughout next week. He will appear in classes and will be available for informal talks with students and members of the faculty. His prolonged visit is to provide ample time for anyone to question the topics which he discusses in his lectures.

Sacrament Sunday

Dean of the Chapel Colin F. Miller will celebrate the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at 12:30 p.m. Sunday in the Chapel. The Chapel Board has invited members of the Chapel Congregation and the college community to attend.

G. A. Macdonald To Speak, Show Movies Thursday

The Lecture Committee secured Dr. Gordon A. Macdonald to show colored movies of and lecture on volcanism in Hawaii at 8 p.m. Thursday, Mar. 7, in the Chapel.

Profs. Hawley and Potter of the geology department became acquainted with Dr. Macdonald and his studies this past summer at the International Geological Congress in Mexico.

Assured of Macdonald's excellence as a lecturer and expert in his field, they began to initiate a plan whereby he could come East from his present California studies.

Since the estimated cost to bring Macdonald to Hamilton would have been exorbitant, the geology department contacted 10 eastern colleges and universities as to their willingness to hear Macdonald. Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Syracuse, Dartmouth and Amherst agreed to join the Hamilton plan.

Hawley and Potter have seen Macdonald's movies and have testified to their all-around excellence. They were especially impressed with the movies' dramatic shots of lava fountains spurting 800 feet into the air. "Not even professional camera men," said Hawley, "have shots like these, for they were frightened and awed by the violence of the volcanoes and did not dare to go as close as he did."

Macdonald has been in Hawaii for more than 15 years exploring active cones, taking their temperatures and sampling lavas and gasses. He is presently U. S. Geological Survey Director of the Hawaiian Volcano Observatory.

A noted volcanologist, he is interested in ground-water geology, petrography and petrology of volcanoes, geologic mapping and has studied Philippine volcanoes.

Moran Sets Date For Continental

The "Continental," the college literary magazine, will probably be published about two weeks before spring vacation, Editor John Moran said Tuesday. It will be similar to the last issue.

It will include sketches by Dick Stevens and Pete Phelps as well as poems, fiction and non-fiction articles.

A humorous story entitled "One Moonlit Night" by Jim McClintock will also be included. On the more serious side, Vic Talentino has written an article entitled "The Stove."

Several articles on the non-fiction side will include a criticism of science fiction by Hurd Baruch and a survey of the religious life on campus by Art Melius. Also included are poems by Tom Benson, Roger Pisani, Wally Ruckert and others.

Moran also commented that the editor and staff of the "Continental" were pleased with the response which the student body showed for the last issue. He added, however, that he would like to see more students, especially freshmen, contribute to the publication.

Moran also said that if the magazine gets enough response during the next few months, another issue would be published in May.

Alumni Contribute $50,000 in Drive

Contributions to the 1957 Alumni Fund reached the half-way point in the drive to raise $100,000, the chairman, Richard W. Couper of Binghamton, announced Wednesday.

Couper reported that 1,307 contributors have given $50,642.00 to the Fund which has one month left in which to achieve the second half of its goal. The 1957 Fund drive will end at midnight on Mar. 31.

Couper is assisted by Hugh R. Jones of Utica, N. Y., and Halsey V. Barrett of New York City as vice-chairmen.

Skaters To Meet Middlebury; Basketball Team Wins, Loses

Reversing their usual pattern of play, the Hamilton cagers bounced back into their winning ways by trouncing Rochester University 80-66 Wednesday night. Saturday the Continentals lost a hard fought game to Ithaca College 73-68 before a Winter Carnival crowd.

Pacing the Blue attack against Rochester were Eric Hasseltine and John Glezen with 24 and 22 points respectively, while John Burgess led the Rochester quintet with 16.

Hamilton Takes Over

Rochester opened a 9 - 6 lead in the opening minutes on three foul conversions. Eric Hasseltine netted four quick foul shots to give Hamilton the lead. An exchange of baskets took place, then Hamilton shot into the lead which they never relinquished.

Hamilton pushed its lead to ten points twice, hitting on almost every shot. Shortly before the half, Burgess sparked Rochester in making up half the ten point deficit, and the half ended 40 - 35.

It appeared as though the second half would be a replica of the first, Rochester fighting hard to stay in the game. Then Hamilton upped its lead to 12 points 55-44, apparently sewing up the decision.

Strategic Substitution

With seven minutes remaining, the Rochester fast break began to move against the tiring Blue team, and the point difference started to drop rapidly.

Hamilton called time out with the score standing at 57-55. Coach Ken Patrick made some strategic substitutions, giving the first five a deserved break. From this point on the game was never in doubt.

Rochester put on an all court press in the final moments which proved to be quite ineffective. Wally Hoffman added four points from the foul line for the last scores of the game and the contest was

Swimmers Bow To Buffalo State

Hamilton concluded its 15th swimming season Saturday as the Continentals bowed to Buffalo State Teacher's College, 32-28.

Before a large Houseparty crowd, the Continentals jumped to an early, short - lived lead when the Teachers ceded five points in the 400-yard medley relay.

Retiring co-captains Kevin Keogh and Tom Meyer, in their last meet for Hamilton were outstanding in the Blue cause. Keogh placed third in the 220 and the 440, while Meyer swam to a second in the 50 yd. sprint.

Bob Miller took second place in the 200-yard butterfly event, while freshman Trent Smith scored third in the diving contest. Miller also finished third behind Bruce Hall in the breaststroke.

Other point winners for the Huntermen were Peter Ensor and Bob Kraunz, who captured second and third in the 100, and Charlie Kriebel and Ed Allis in the backstroke.

At a meeting this week, the swimming team chose Vic Hopkins and Bob Miller as co-captains for the 1957-58 campaign. Both men are juniors.

Wrestling Team Looks to Future

Hamilton's new wrestling team was unable to post a win this year. However, Captain Dave Quarton feels that the team makes up in ambition what they lack in experience.

After losing their first match decisively to Union, the Continentals began to get in shape and improve rapidly. The other two meets included a triangular work-out with Albany State and Union at Albany, and a match with Ithaca College at Ithaca.

The eight boys who competed this year were seniors George Rutter and Dave Quarton, sophomores Jay Burr, Pat Chase and Jim Sullivan, and freshmen John Ward, Charlie Kruger, and captain-elect Bob Manning.

Quarton stated that with improved facilities, a coach, and the experience that the team has gained, wrestling could become a major sport at Hamilton College.

Hamilton will close the 1956-57 hockey season tomorrow night, playing host to Middlebury in the Sage Rink. The Blue, losers of nine in a row, are underdogs going into tomorrow night's contest, but it is a role that they have often assumed against the Panthers.

Hamilton has met Middlebury in hockey more times than any other team on the Blue schedule. In a game at Middlebury earlier this season, the home forces triumphed 6 - 1 with center Mike Karin, a native of Clinton, leading the way with three goals.

Tomorrow's game will be the final one for six graduating Hill seniors. Making their farewell appearances are forwards Bob Regan and Bill Scoones; defensemen Joe O'Brien, Ken Shutt and Tim Colt; and goalie Ward Olney.

Last Saturday, the Blue dominated play for a large part of the game, but the visiting Williams team was able to take advantage of the breaks. The result was an 8-3 victory for the visitors, as a disappointed Winter Carnival throng looked on.

Williams jumped into the lead at 4:37 of the first stanza when Dave Cook, assisted by Lombard and Poole, pushed the puck past goal-tender Don Spencer. Four minutes later, Cook assisted Lombard, who made it 2 - 0.

The Blue finally broke through at 18:18, Scoones taking a beautiful cross-ice pass from Thorp and unleashing a vicious shot at Eph goalie Dick Marr. The disc caromed off his glove and into the twines. Three seconds before the period's close, however, Cook tallied again on a 10-foot slap shot to make the score Williams 3, Hamilton 1.

The second period saw an immediate improvement in play over the sloppy first canto. Bob Regan opened the scoring with only 33 seconds gone, taking a pass from Scoones, carrying the puck around to the right side of the Williams cage, and pushing it behind Marr into the left corner.

Fifteen minutes later, Lowden put the visitors in front by two goals once again, connecting on passes from Leinbeck and Patterson. At 18:32, Regan took passes from Thorp and Scoones in a scramble around the Eph cage and tallied his second goal of the afternoon. The one goal deficit was short-lived—at 18:35 Gallon scored on a pass from Flood to finish the period's scoring.

Patterson scored again for Williams at 0:53 of the final period and, from that point on the roof fell in on the Continentals. Batt desperately tried to rally his forces by using five forwards for much of the period, but it was of no avail. Leinbeck and Driscoll scored for the Purple at 13:54 and 17:30 respectively to wind up the scoring.

Line Score:

Hamilton:	1	2	0—3
Williams	3	2	3—8

Chapel Board Plans For Spring

Monday night the Chapel Board made plans for the second semester at its meeting at the Lambda Chi house.

Dean of the Chapel Colin F. Miller will officiate at both communion services for members of the Chapel Congregation this semester. The first service will be Sunday at 12:30 p.m. and the second will be after the regular Chapel service on Easter Sunday Apr. 21.

The group also discussed the Chapel Board seminars which will be given during the semester. Next week's "Spectator" will give the complete schedule of the seminars.

Sometime in the spring, members of the board will bring orphans from Utica to a baseball game on the Hill.

Toynbee . . .

The author in this essay is making an appeal for an end to the provincialism of the West—a provincialism which allows the West to see the history of the world as being nothing more than the story of its Europeanization.

The contacts between the world and Western Europe do make a continuous and dynamic story, but since things are changing and changing quickly, our own salvation (survival?) depends upon a re-thinking in which the Westerner "must try, for a few minutes, to slip out of his native western skin." India did not enter history, for example, when a Portuguese navigator "discovered" it.

In his own attempt to look at the contact between Russia and the West in this fashion (and of course Russia is neither western nor non-western but something in between), Toynbee emphasizes the following points.

First, Russia and the West shared a common Christian heritage, but this proved more of a barrier than a tie when the Orthodox and Western versions of the faith began to use the sword and the anathema rather than the Holy Scriptures as a means of settling their differences. Next came the estranging influence of the Mongol conquests which the author thinks had the double effect of bringing about aggression from the West against the subdued and confused Russians and of leading the Russians to accept a disagreeable autocracy as the alternative to assimilation.

In a third point, he discusses the Russian answer to western aggression, the adoption of western technology. The imposition of western technology was a sporadic and not always successful process. It is still going on.

And finally in the last bout between Russia and the West, the Russians adopted another sort of tool from the West a creed—the Marxian synthesis. This is a particularly powerful weapon in Russian hands, he says, because it is in reality a western heresy and therefore has ready-made converts in the West, and even more important, in those areas formerly dominated by the West. This is a particularly powerful way of re-stating an obvious and perhaps tiresome bit of news.

One of the most pleasant things about Toynbee is that he says well known things in a stimulating and re-focused fashion. They are not only put into new terms, but ideas emerge even within new frameworks of thought.

Some of the re-thinking involves some rather violent shuffling of ideas and it is not always easy to agree with the emphasis that emerges. For example, was it really technological difference which brought defeat to Russia at the hands of the Poles in 1610 and of the Germans in 1917?

In order to make one of his points, Toynbee employs a rather loose interchange of the terms Marxism and Communism. And finally was there nothing in the Russian tradition that "could have led them to invent Communism for themselves?" But the value to the reader in following Professor Toynbee along these paths of his choosing is that it stimulates us to a fresh inspection of some of our own perhaps all too securely held opinions.

by Richard C. Hall

It is unfortunate that when Toynbee leaves the field of history and ventures into the realm of speculation in search of general principles with which he can interpret his facts, he chooses such poorly supported principles.

Seeking the fundamentals demonstrated by the four encounters he deals with, one of the great living historians finds that "one man's meat can be another man's poison" and "one thing leads to another." The reader finds himself being convinced that a maternity hospital within a naval arsenal proves this second fact of psychology of encounters.

"The World and the West" is a painless little sample of Toynbee's work, and, as such, is worthwhile reading. The subject it treats is important, and the viewpoint it presents is interesting. Whether it is convincing or not must be left to the individual.

Basketball . . .

Hamilton's, 80-66.

Ithaca Different Story

The Continentals controlled the backboards most of the game. John Glezen and Dick Aloffs doing most of the rebounding. Rochester fielded one of the few teams that the Hamilton quint has faced this year which did not outstrip them in height.

Saturday against Ithaca College, Hamilton fell behind at the outset, stayed that way most of the first half, then spurted to take a 4-point lead at half time 34-30.

Hamilton continued to up their lead in the second half, leading at one time 44-36. Then Ithaca resumed control.

Several timely rebounds and strong defensive efforts gave the Ithaca five control over the ball. Marsh began to hit and Ithaca punctured Hamilton's tiring zone defense.

The game remained under Ithaca's control as they took over lead and built up a 10-point lead. Hamilton threatened only once in the final minutes before the gun, when they pulled the lead down to five points.

Saturday Hamilton is host to Stevens in their final basketball contest of the year. The team's record now stands at 6 wins, 8 losses.
